

For immediate release September 22, 2010

The Towner Management Group Chronicles the Development of Captive Insurance as a Vital Risk Management Tool

Burlington, VT— From its stop-gap beginnings a few decades ago as a way to deal with an often unresponsive insurance market, captive insurance has evolved into an "indispensible risk management tool", says Thomas P. Stokes, Managing Principal of The Towner Management Group (NY) LLC and Consulting Practice Leader for TMG. A 20+ year veteran of the captive and insurance industries, Tom previously held thought leadership positions with the world's largest public accounting firms and captive consultants and managers, including KPMG, PwC, Aon and Willis.

Stokes has authored this timely thought leadership paper, Captives Move to Center Stage as Risk Management Evolves, which TMG has just released. Click on the press room/breaking news link at www.townermanagement.com and look for the title under Towner Thought Leadership Papers, or contact us for a copy.

The paper examines the development of captive insurance to its present position as the vehicle of choice for deploying risk management techniques. It is appropriate for anyone interested in learning more about captives. You can access the paper on our web site at www.townermanagement.com or contact Tom directly for a print version.

To learn more about how captive insurance could benefit your company, call Tom at 203-695-2102, contact him at tom.stokes@townermanagement.com or reach the independent captive management company professionals of Towner Management at the contact information below.